

0.00–0.20 Today I'm looking at photos of special events and festivals from around the world. This first photo shows a festival in Scotland. It's called the Beltane Fire Festival.

0.21–0.32 The man on the left has a white mask on, I think. And the woman on the right has make-up on and she's wearing an amazing costume.

0.33–0.51 Here's another man with make-up on. But he's a clown in the USA. Normally he makes the audience laugh at a rodeo with horses, but in this photo he's listening to the national anthem before the performance begins.

0.52–1.06 There's also music in this photo from a parade in Buenos Aires, the capital city of Argentina. The musicians are wearing uniforms and they are playing some loud music.

1.07–1.18 Look at the man at the front. What instrument is he playing? It's a clarinet. And the man behind is playing a trumpet.

1.19–1.44 Here's one from India. It's at the Elephant Festival in Jaipur. The colours of the make-up and cloth on the elephant's head and body are incredible! There's yellow, orange, pink, red, purple, light blue and dark blue.

1.45–1.57 This is the last photo. It's from Venice in Italy. I love the woman's mask and her jewellery. And those gloves are wonderful.

1.58–end She looks like a woman from the past, but in fact the Venice Carnival is every year and you can see lots of people in colourful costumes like this. I'd love to go there.
